

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS: In 1994, Trinity Baptist College hired Patrick J. Milligan to coach the men's basketball team. Since then, Coach Milligan has become a TBC fixture, becoming the school's all-time winningest coach and the first inductee into the TBC Athletics Hall of Fame in 2012; and

WHEREAS: Coach Milligan holds a 368-262 record over his 22 years as head coach of the Eagles. He has led the team to 11 postseason appearances, with four Bible College National Championship titles, for a 25-8 overall tournament record; and

WHEREAS: Prior to joining TBC, Coach Milligan began his coaching career at high schools in Indiana. His overall career record is 896-467, and he has won numerous Coach of the Year awards at both the high school and collegiate levels; and

WHEREAS: Coach Milligan has always focused on a bigger mission beyond the court, sharing his love for Jesus Christ with his players. Today, 63 former TBC basketball players serve in various full-time ministry roles; and

WHEREAS: In addition to coaching at TBC, Coach Milligan has run the S.P.O.R.T.S. Basketball Camps for children in our community and volunteers weekly at the Trinity Rescue Mission. He has been married to his wife, Susan, for 45 years, and has three sons, three daughters-in-law, and five grandchildren; and

WHEREAS: Coach Milligan, who currently serves as Head Coach Emeritus/Assistant Athletics Director, is retiring after 44 years in the game.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, LENNY CURRY, by virtue of the authority vested in me as mayor of Jacksonville, Florida, do hereby proclaim March 3, 2018 as in Jacksonville and recognize his years of contributions to Trinity Baptist College, his dedication to his players and sport, and his generosity in giving back to our Jacksonville community.

IN WITNESS THEREOF, this 1ST day of March in the year Two Thousand 18
